The Lovely Lady Whom It Is Said the President Is to Marry in June.

Buffa'o (N. Y.) correspondence of the New York Sun: The statement of the Rev. Wm. Cleveland, brother of the President, that the latter will marry Miss Frances Felsom, the lovely daughter of the la'e Oscar Folsom, to-gether with some additional information gleaned to-day by the correspon-dent of the Sun, leaves no doubt of the fact that the White-House wedding will take place. There has been a dramatic epissele in Miss Folsom's life which is worth parrating, and not only on account of its interest, but it shows her rare good common sense on a trying occasion. Miss Folsom's father was killed in 1875 on Grand Istand by being thrown from a buggy in a runaway accident. She was at that time only eleven years of age; and her first appearance in public was some foar years later. Meantime she had been taken by her mother to an uncle's a Ransomville, where Mrs. Folsom attended to her daughter's pre-liminary education. This step was made necessary by the confused con-dition of Oscar Fulsom's affairs, which were in such an entangled condition at the time of his sudden death that Mr. Cleveland, who took charge of the affairs, thought Mrs. Folsom and her daughter, for a time at leas , had betliscontinue their residence at the Tifft House.

The appearance of Miss Folsom referred to was at the ce ebrated au-thors' carnival, held in 1879 in the Pearl street rink, and which was one of the most brilliant and resplendent affairs of the kind of which the monde of this city have any recollection Miss Folsom was an attendant at the Robert Burns booth, and wore the characteristic costume of a Highland lassie, with plaid dress kilt, and all the acssories. Her rare beauty and amiability made her a tremendous favorite with everybody and in a contest of beauty, in which all the belles partici-pated, Miss Folsom was a first-prize vinner. About 15,000 ballots were cast in this competition, and the fatherless beauty had a large plurality, her vote nearly equaling that of all the other beauties put together. Despite her youth, nd modest, retiring and sensitive isposition, Miss Folsom went more d more in society, but did not neg-et her studies. She was able to pass e Regent's examination about this e, and spent two years in the Central High school in preparation for the four years' course which she subse-quently took in Wells College at Aurora, where she was graduated last year, the star in the class In the Central High School Miss Folsom did not display any brilliancy of talent, nding it better than some pupils to seemed more bright, bu whose imments were more ephemeral. while she was a student at

There Frankie, as she was known among her friends, became acquainted with Charles Townsend, a son of wealthy parents, and a fascinating gallant, who was, however, impu-sive, capricious and changeable, both in society and business affairs. Mr. Pownsend had tried his talents in everal fields, but tired of them raplly, and seemed never likely to setpermanently in any sphere life. He was a newspaper reporter, clerk in a drug store, an embryo wyer and a railroad clerk. Miss olsom was, as now, a lovely and a svable girl, and as she was impresonable the attentions of Mr. Townind were received with pleasing fervor. The Folsoms resided an unpretentious brick house Nigara street was Montager of the control Niagara street, near Morgan, there her first courtship was illness? An engagement soon resu'ted. "Ther Soon afterward young Townsend con-cluded to study theology, and, with that object in view, went to Auburn and attended the Presbyterian Semithere. A banker's daughter who possessed the same qualiof heart, mind and face that Miss Folsom was noted for became ac-quainted with him, and the present belle soon shattered the absent idol of the youth's adoration He finally wrote a letter to Frankie, in which he He finaly told her, with a tinge of sorrow, that he believed he could never love her as deserved to be loved; that he thought he had proved himself un-worthy of her affections, and, in short, that she had best dismiss him from r mind. This was a trying time for ankie, but she promptly wrote back that she was perfectly satisfied, and was rather glad to have him express his views so frankly. That was all here was of it. This, however, was not the good fortune of the Auburn to whom Mr Townsend beconclusion that he was too poor to stones, which are on the ragged edge, marry, and told her so in a letter can be induced to keep their positions marry, and told her so in a letter which she received while making arrangements for her bridal clothes. The effect on her was the opposite of what it had been on Miss Folsom, and her father, who took the letter from her hand before she had recovered from her fainting spell, could hardly be restrained from inflicting corporal mishment on the man who had field with her affections. Frankie's st lover is now the Rev. Charles

The mother and a younger daug: ter have been visiting Mr. Wellington, in Troy, and it is alleged that Mrs. Townsend is the lady who received the letter from Miss. Folsom announcing her engagement to the President. Despite the clergy-man's actions in the past, Miss Fol-som's relations with the Townsends continued to be intimate and pleasant. and Mrs. Townsend regarded her with motherly affection, which was strongly tried by the disappointment she felt when her son did not make Frankie his wife. Mr. E. Corning Townsend is authority for the statement that the ter exists, and he says positively that he has seen it.

The wedding it was said, would be of the most quiet character possible, and it was to be solemnized in the White House in June. > About a year ago some newspapers printed a poor picture of Miss Fol-som, which so displeased her that she employed a detective to fix the responsibility for its appearance, but after considerable effort it was found impossible to trace the source of the publication. Her intention was to prosecute the originator of what she termed an outrage both civilly and criminally if it was possible.

Mr. Bissell has main-tained a discreet silence, but has, it is said, practically, admitted to some of said, practically admitted to some of his friends that this is so. As Mr. Bissell is a very sensitive man about such things as weddings, his acquaintances have avoided questioning him much about it. In so-clety circles it is said that one of the bridemaids will be Miss Ida Gregg, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Dr. Rollan B. Gregg, the well-known physician. She is an intimate friend of the bride prospective, who has visited much at her home, and is credited with knowing all about Miss Folsom's engagement. The Sun cor-respondent called at Dr. Gregg's residence to see Miss Gregg, but she was not at home. In the family album were six cabinet photographs of Miss Folsom, rep esenting her in different attitudes, which were models of grace and beauty These were placed in the album by the young lady herself. Dr. and Mrs. Gregg said they knew nothing about the engagement, but they seemed to believe that the story was true. This conversation occurred before the positive information given in preceding paragraphs had been ob-

New York, April 21.—At Ex-President Arthur's residence last evening the attendant said in regard to Mr. Arthur's condition: "He is greatly improved. Chicago's Daugerous Court-House. CHICAGO ILL., April 21.—Consternation seized the people who were pass ing the Washington street front of the court-house this morning at 10:15 o'clock. It was caused by the falling of another huge stone from the upper part of the building. When it struck the ground people nearly fainted. They thought their last hour had The passing teams and those hitched along the sidewalk became seized with a panic and many of them became unmanagesble and ran away. It was found that no one was actually hurt. The high fence which has been erected around the ruin acted as a barricade and prevented any of the flying pieces of stone from killing or maining any one. It is hoped by the authorities that various other until the men who are at work at-tempting to regair the building can remove them by means of derricks.

Unnecessary Violence,
For which outraged nature exacts he vey penalties, is done to the bowels by persons who, with drastic, drenching puratives make war on those oreans in order to relieve their constriction. Constitution is not one of those desperate diseases that require desperate remedies. In feet, it is not a disease at all, but the incomplete discharge of a function, to the healthful renewal of which Hosvetter's Stamach Bitters is iar better adapted than drugs, whose action is excessive, and consequently debilitating and injurious. Disorder of the liver, contamination of the blood with bile, sick headaches and drypetizsymptoms are the attendants of coativeness, and are likewise remedies by the Bitters. Its action is not limited to relieving the bowels naturally and without calo. Fighting to Mandalay.

London, April 21 .- Advices from Mandalay say that a British expedi-tion sent against the Kachyen tribe has been compelled to retreat. The rebels in overwhelming force made a desperate attack on the British, charging into a battery of mountain guns and driving the expedition back. Re-inforcements for the expedition have been ordered from Mandalay. The rebels have captured the Meegandet police station. They bound the garrison with cords and massacred twenty-three persons.

Lord Dufferin, Vicercy of India, telegraphs that he does not altach any importance to the news received ye terday and to-day. The Viceroy states that according to his official information, only two British soldiers were wounded and none killed in the encounters which took place during the att mpts yesterday of the rebels to burn Mandalay. Lord Dufferin says that skirmishes between British troops and Dacoits will probably be of daily occurrence until the Dacoits are entirely suppressed.

The Sinking of the Gregon

LIVERPOOL, April 21.—The examina-tion by the Board of Trade into the sinking of the steamship Oregon was continued to-day. Officers and mem-bers of the crew testified that a number of attempts were made to ping up with mattresses the breaches made in the vessel by the collision, but the mattresses were sucked through the apertures as quickly as they were placed over them. In the meantime the Oragon had settled two feet, and the seamen engaged in the attempts to secure the mattresses in position to prevent the waters pouring into the vessel were hauled aboard, and this plan for preventing the sinking of the vessel was abandoned.

Pitiable Condition of Affairs at Stry VIENNA, April 2!.- The condition of affairs at Stry among the people who lost their homes by the great fire is most pivable. Most of the victims are without food or means, and are rendered desperate by the thought of starvation. The farmers in the vicinity have been visited by mobs of men who have first demanded food and then, if refused, stole it. Owners of farms are now compelled to barricade their houses as the only way to guard them from being plundered of food by the mob, which, on account of hunger, is becoming uncontrollable. Numerous struggles for fod, resulting in bloodshed, have taken place. All the public archives and registers of Stry were lost in the fire. It will be necessary to sak grants of money from the Lemberg Diet and the Reicherath to relieve the distress of the thousands of destitute people. The search of re-mains of persons who lost their lives during the conflagration has been proceeding as rapidly as the circumstances would allow. Thus far sixty-eight bodies, charred so as to make recognition difficult, have been taken from the ruins. There have been twenty-deaths in the fields since Sunday of invalids, young and old, who were taken out of the town to escape

Religion in the French Schools. Paris correspondence: There is a great controversy going on at present in France between the Roman Catho-lics and atheistic republicans, the ob-ject of which is the expulsion of priests and nuns from positions as teachers in the public schools throughont France. On yesterday morning all of the sisters of St. Vincent de Paul were expelled from the Paris Foundling Asylum. They marched out eighty in number, with very sad faces, and as they left the building eighty lay teachers marched in to take their places. This is probably soon to be followed by similar substitutions throughout France.

A bill which originated in the Chamber of Deputies and after having been passed by the Chamber has now been passed by the Senate, slightly amend-ed, and goes back to the Chamber for fical passage, requires that within a period of five years all clerical teach-ers in public free schools shall be substituted by nonclerical or lay teachers. The latter are not merely, as in Amer-ica, teachers who will retrain from discussing religious doctrines from religious standpoints, but in many cases they are active missionaries for athe-ism. It is difficult for an American to understand the controversy here, because here in France the strongest of the battle is not at all between Roman Catholicism and Protestantism, but between Roman Catholicism and Atheism, for the Protestants of France are n such a minority that they are hard-

There are more outright atheists in France to day then persons of all religions combined. statement on information furnished me during the last week by one of the bighest officials of the Church, who said that atheirn and socialism and acarchism are spreading year by year among the masses, and who looked with dismay upon the threatened capture of the children by atheistic teachers. He told me of a particular case of his personal knowledge where the the teacher requires his pupils to recite every morning the blasphemous sentence, "God is a myth."

The recent hard times and consequent strikes have resulted in aug-menting the hatred of the messes of workingmen against the pries's and the church, for in all strikes the property owners and employers have appealed to the church for its influence in behalf of order, and now the workingman on strike has learned to look on the church as an ally and friend of capital and an enemy of the poor man. Hence the Decazaville riots have added fuel to the fire and have doubtless hastened if not caused the passage of the act of expulsion of the thousands of priests and nuns from the schools. It is now a grave ques-tion wha will become of them. The number of pay schools will doubtless be rapidly increased, but this cannot be sufficient to accommodate the thousands of priestly teachers whose occu-

EPITHELIOMAI OR SEIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. All the simple remedies were applied to alleviate the pain, but the plane centinued to grow, finally extending into my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge, very offensive in character. It was also inflamed, and annoyed me a great deal. About eight menths ago I was in Athanta, at the house, of a friend, who so strongly recommended the use of Swit's Specific that I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and becan its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat sarravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bettles. My seneral health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The emcer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vastire of it. left—only a little grar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to suswer all questions relative to this cure.

I have had a cancer on my fare for some years, extending from one check bone across the nose to the other. It has given me a creat deal of pain, at times hurning and itching to such an extent that it was almost unbearable. I commenced using Swift's Specific in May, 1885, and have used eight bottles. It has given the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health.

Knoxville, Iowa, Sept. 8, 1885.

For many years I was a sufferer with cancer of the nose, and having been cured by the use of S. S. S., I feel constrained by a sense of duty to suffering humanity to make this statement of my case. With the four-teenth bottle the cancer began to heal rapidly and soon disappeared, and for several months there has been no appearance of a sore of any kind on my nose or face, neither is my noze at all tender to the touch. I have taken about two dozen bottles of S. S. S. I am soundly cured, and I know that S. S. s. effected the cure after every known remedy was tried and had failed.

I had heard of the wonderful cures of Swift's Specific, and recolved to try it. I commenced taking it in April, 1884 My general health was much improved, but the cancer which was in my breat continued to grow slowly but surely. The bunch grew and became quite heavy. I fet that I must either have it cut or die. But it commenced discharging quantities of almost black, thick blood. It continued healing around the edges until February, when it was entirely healed up and well.
